The goal of Resident Evil 8 is to escape the village with your daughter who was kidnapped, And while trying to escape, you have to fight the four lords to get each part of your child to reform her.

When Resident Evil 7: Biohazard came out on January 24, 2017, It quickly became very popular and it still is to this day, it currently has 9.6 million copies made and sold. It is ranked the most popular Resident Evil in the franchise.

The goal of Resident evil 7: Biohazard, is to escape the Baker Estate with your wife who went missing three years prior and suddenly got an email saying to come get her, but things backfire and you have to fight the "poisoned" family.

While these are just the two newest Resident Evils, there are many more before these and more to come. But as a fan who has played over half the games, I find these two the most interesting.
